

Pharmacies as Potential Candidates for National Diabetes Prevention Program (National DPP) Sites in Georgia Counties with High Diabetes Prevalence

Source:
PLACES: County Data (GIS Friendly Format). Diabetes Prevalence and Population in Georgia (2018).
Georgia Department of Public Health, National Diabetes Prevention Program Sites (2021).
Esri/Infogroup. Infogroup Business Locations (2018).

Author: Jennifer McAtee, Georgia Department of Public Health, July 2021

The National DPP is a partnership of public and private organizations working to prevent or delay type 2 diabetes by offering evidence-based lifestyle change programs to individuals affected. The distribution of pharmacies in areas with high diabetes prevalence suggests that pharmacies may be good locations for additional sites.