The 2023 awards will honor CDC publications in five categories:

Assessment, Data Methods and Study Design, Health Equity Science, Laboratory Science and Prevention and Control. The nominees for 2023 include 83 publications across these five categories. The Office of Science will also announce the winner of the Lifetime Scientific Achievement Award.

The Shepard Science Awards were established in 1986 to honor internationally recognized microbiologist Charles C. Shepard, MD. Dr. Shepard was chief of CDC’s Leprosy and Rickettsia Branch for more than 30 years until his death on February 18, 1985.

This year’s keynote speaker will be Dr. Adam Grant. Adam Grant Ph.D. is the Saul P. Steinberg Professor of Management and Professor of Psychology at The Wharton School, University of Pennsylvania. He has been recognized as Wharton’s top-rated professor for seven straight years. As an organizational psychologist, he is a leading expert on how we can find motivation, meaning, and live more generous and creative lives. He has been recognized as one of the world’s 10 most influential management thinkers and Fortune’s 40 under 40.

Adam is the #1 New York Times bestselling author of 5 books that have sold millions of copies and been translated into 35 languages: Think Again, Give and Take, Originals, Option B, and Power Moves. His books have been named among the year’s best by Amazon, Apple, the Financial Times, and the Wall Street Journal.

He hosts WorkLife, a chart-topping TED original podcast. His TED talks on original thinkers and givers and takers have been viewed more than 25 million times. He has more than 4 million followers on social media and features new insights in his free monthly newsletter, GRANTED.

Adam received his Ph.D. from the University of Michigan and his B.A. from Harvard University. He has received awards for distinguished scholarly achievement from the Academy of Management, the American Psychological Association, and the National Science Foundation, and been recognized as one of the world's most-cited, most prolific, and most influential researchers in business and economics. He is a former magician and Junior Olympic springboard diver.
