

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's Screen for Life: National Colorectal Cancer Action Campaign

USE OF SCREEN FOR LIFE MATERIALS

Content and materials developed by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) Screen for Life: National Colorectal Cancer Action Campaign and presented on CDC's Web sites are available for public use exactly as they are found online, without being changed in any way. (See "Restrictions" section below.)

Screen for Life encourages individuals, organizations, and companies to use campaign materials to help educate men and women aged 50 years and older about the importance of colorectal cancer screening. All Screen for Life materials are free for public use and available to print or order through the campaign's Web site: www.cdc.gov/screenforlife.

RESTRICTIONS

FACT SHEETS, BROCHURES, POSTERS, POST CARDS, BANNER ADS, AND PSAS

Screen for Life fact sheets, brochures, posters, post cards, banner ads, and public service announcements (PSAs) may not be changed in any way. Adding or removing logos or information to highlight the services provided by an individual, company, or organization would imply endorsement by the Department of Health and Human Services, and this is against Federal policy.

IMAGES AND ILLUSTRATIONS

Screen for Life images and illustrations may be copyright protected and require permission from the content provider for use. Many Screen for Life images are bound by contract with talent for CDC's use only. If you have a question about using a Screen for Life image, please call 1-800-CDC-INFO or send an e-mail message to cdcinfo@cdc.gov.

CAMPAIGN LOGOS

Screen for Life is a CDC campaign. Its logo may not be used on materials other than those created and produced by CDC. The campaign logo is not available to third-party organizations for use on independently created materials.
