

PUBLIC HEALTH REPORTS

Published since 1878

Contents

	Page
Effect of fluoridated public water supplies on dental caries prevalence—Seventh year of Grand Rapids-Muskegon study-----	141
Francis A. Arnold, Jr., H. Trendley Dean, and John W. Knutson.
“We are in danger of building a Tower of Babel”-----	149
Vannevar Bush.
The aggregate community picture—Psychosocial aspects of cancer---	153
Edna Nicholson.
Statistics in a health department medical care plan-----	157
Matthew Taback and Huntington Williams.
Selective case finding in syphilis control-----	167
George Moore and Malcolm T. Foster.
Chronic disease mortality in influenza epidemics-----	173
The state of the Nation’s public health services-----	174
Report on programs and problems, 1953-----	174
Leonard A. Scheele.
Report on Federal-State relations-----	181
John W. Thurston.
Report on child health and welfare-----	183
Martha M. Eliot.
Report on international staffing-----	188
Henry van Zile Hyde.
1950 census findings on health occupations-----	191
Seasonal occurrence of communicable disease—1951 and 1952 summary-----	194
Practice of public health, 1952—Part II-----	197
BW defense, general services of virus laboratories . . .	199.
A century of progress in sanitary engineering . . .	202.
Epidemiological and control aspects of anthrax . . .	205.
Policies for the promotion of healthful school life . . .	207.
Scope and characteristics of occupational health . . .	209.
Philosophies and practices in school health . . .	213.
Maternal and infant mortality surveys and evaluations . . .	218.
Water fluoridation programs and community health . . .	220.
Field

Continued ►

Contents for February, continued

Practice of public health, 1952, Part II—continued

research and appraisal in health education . . . 224. Nursing home responsibilities of State health departments . . . 228. Business methods and standards in health administration . . . 229. Developments and policies in water conservation . . . 234. Planning and team approaches to a better environment . . . 236. Standard methods for examination of dairy products . . . 243. New methods in examination of water and sewage . . . 245. School health service trends and research studies . . . 248. Studies and programs in dental public health . . . 251. Use of surveys as yardsticks in public health . . . 254. Health programs—Their aid to handicapped children . . . 256. Laboratory and field advances in food sanitation . . . 260. Importance of animal diseases to the health of man . . . 263. Problems, methods, programs in community fly control . . . 267. Methods and practice in the provision of medical service . . . 269. New and developing elements in public health programs . . . 273. Techniques in health statistics and records management . . . 277.

Short reports and announcements:

Frontispiece . . . ii. PHS publications . . . 196. Psycho-social aspects of cancer . . . 152. Mrs. Hobby New Federal Security Administrator . . . 193.

---

Published concurrently with this issue:

PUBLIC HEALTH MONOGRAPH No. 10 . . . Excess deaths from chronic disease during influenza epidemics.

Selwyn D. Collins and Josephine Lehmann.

22 pages and illustrations. A summary and information on availability appear on p. 173.

