

Pre-K Parenting Intervention (1997-2001)

(92 Families/Parents, 99 Pre-K Children)

3 post intervention follow-up till K

* T1=Fall Pre-K, T2= Spring Pre-K, T3=Fall K, T4=Spring K

Intervention

50 Pre-K children (47 families) enrolled

Female: n = 24, 22, 19, 18 at T1, T2, T3 & T4

Male: n = 26, 20, 18, 21 at T1, T2, T3 & T4

Control

49 Pre-K children (45 families) enrolled

Female: n = 28, 25, 22, 21 at T1, T2, T3 & T4

Male: n = 21, 19, 17, 16 at T1, T2, T3 & T4

Partner Violence Study in 2008-2009

37 families (40%) were re-contacted; 54 females were recruited
(27 primary intervention study targets + 27 new consented siblings)

 Families followed and not followed did not differ on poverty, sibling status, parental education, race/ethnicity, baseline parenting practices. These patterns were consistent across conditions.*

29 female (from 20 families)

12 targeted children & 17 siblings consented

25 female (from 17 families)

15 targeted children & 10 siblings consented

Analytical sample by research question:

- 1) Intervention effect on Perceptions of Dating Violence (i.e., Violence Norms, Dating Violence Prevalence, Peer Dating Violence): All females, $\underline{n}=29$
- 2) Intervention effect on violence sanction: limited to participants who reported involvement in any dating relationship since age 10; $\underline{n}=21$ (from 16 families)
- 3) Intervention effect on IPV (perpetration/victimization): limited to participants who reported involvement in a dating relationship within past year; $\underline{n}=20$

Analytical sample by research question:

- 1) Intervention effect on Perceptions of Dating Violence (i.e., Violence Norms, Dating Violence Prevalence, Peer Dating Violence): All females, $\underline{n}=23$
- 2) Intervention effect on violence sanction: limited to participants who reported involvement in any dating relationship since age 10; $\underline{n}=16$ (from 11 families)
- 3) Intervention effect on IPV (perpetration/victimization): limited to participants who reported involvement in a dating relationship within past year; $\underline{n}=15$